WANT BERLIN ADMITTED

Feel Quarrel Would Not Have

Washington.—The diplomatic corps talked of little else Thursday but the action taken by Brazil in blocking the entry of Germany into the council of the League of Nations. The implications of Brazil's policy touch the roots of Pan-American concord and affect, to some extent, the foreign policy of the United States.

And the consensus of opinion seemed to be that there was less ground
for pessimism over the postponement than optimism. For it was reasoned here that it is far better to have Brazil's viewpoint satisfied in the long run than to leave the nations of this hemisphere without a seat in the council. Between now and September when the league meets again
it is expected that formula will be worked out with respect to membership on the council.

BRAZIL WANTS SEAT

If the United States had joined the league possibly the present controversy would not have arisen because Brazil has insisted on taking permanently the place left vacant by the United States. For several years the league has made pronounced efforts to keep the nations of central and south America as members. Even when it appeared that the United States would regard the Geneva insult as a European league, this did not influence the majority of Latin-American nations to step out.
They have, in other words, discovered that the league affords them a forum in which to express themselves on an equality with other sovereign powers and there is just a suggestion here and there that at Geneva some day voices may be raised against alleged imperialistic tendencies of the United States. When the United States by such act as the assistance given the partition of Columbia when Panama was set up or in the handling of Mexican troubles does or does not merit the term "imperialism" from the viewpoint of Washington the important fact is that the nations south of the Rio Grande have never disabused themselves of that notion altogether.
Under the circumstances therefore, their membership in the league and especially in the council is deemed important by them. Of all the nations south of Mexico, the traditional friend of the United States has been Brazil. Whether it be in Latin-American diplomacy or world affairs, Brazil has stood for more than a century close to Washington. That's why there is more or less sympathy in official circles here with the insistence of Brazil on a seat in the council.

It is regarded as unfortunate that Brazil's desire should be any way affected by Germany's admission. Washington would like to see Germany admitted for the sake of European stability and peace. But on the other hand inasmuch as the action of the council must be by unanimous consent, diplomats here fall to see why the enlargement of the council to include Brazil should meet with serious objection. It is predicted here that when the whole controversy is ended
the solution will be found in the enlargement of the council to include both Germany and Brazil as permanent members.

Meanwhile the split at Geneva
should affect the attitude of Latin-American states toward the League.
Such a development will be watched with much interest by the officials of the American government familiar with foreign policy because it never has been clearly developed whether the Geneva league would assist or retard the influence of the United States in affairs of special concern in the western hemisphere. The reservation in the covenant of the league inserted by President Wilson to the effect that the covenant does not impair the Monroe doctrine has always been counted as one bulwark for the United States whether inside or outside the league in the event that a dispute arose which might be brought before the league against the desire of the Washington government.

WOMAN FIGHTS EXTRADITION

RESIGNS

Athens, Greece.—(AP)—Admiral Coundouriotis (above) has resigned
the Greek presidency. An election will be held to decide his successor.

Admiral Coundouriotis assumed the regency of Greece when King George II was forced to leave the country in December, 1924. Subsequently upon the formation of the republic after the plebiscite of April, 1924, he became provisional president, holding the post
up to the present time.

32 KILLED IN CHINESE RIOTS

Government Orders Arrest of Leaders in Protest Against Government Action

Peking.—(AP)—Thirty two persons were dead Friday as the result of soldiers firing upon a parade of 2,000
young men and women students in front of the residence of the chief executive, Tuan Chi Jui.

The students sought to protest
Thursday against the government's acceptance of demands of foreign powers that the blockade of Tientsin be lifted.

Thirty persons were wounded seriously and some 50 others slightly. The dead include 21 students, among them 2 girls. The soldiers, after beating the students with their rifles used bayonets then fired shots for 5 minutes.

A minor clash, after the more serious riot, took place between members of the personal guard of the chief executive, presumably over the question of responsibility for the earlier shooting. Kuomintang (national army) troops were sent to restore order.

The arrest of a half dozen radical leaders was ordered by the government.

HOPE TO SAVE FARMER'S LIFE WITH VIOLET RAYS

Milwaukee.—(AP)—Louis Radke, a Thienerville farmer ill with tubercular peritonitis will receive his first violet ray treatment at his farm home, some time Saturday or Sunday.

During the past 48 hours, the line crew of a local electric company has fought through foot after foot of frozen ground to set poles and string lines to the Radke home over the half mile which separate the sick man from the power which his physician said probably may save his life.

The electric company completed its work Thursday night well after darkness had settled, only to find that the violet ray machine, ordered several days ago had not arrived and probably would not arrive for two days.

BLAINE ASKS STATE PROVE MAN MURDERED

Governor Refuses to Hear Evidence Pointing to Guilt
of La Crosse Woman

Madison.—(AP)—Refusing to hear evidence concerning the innocence or guilt of Mrs. Mayme Hodge of La Crosse, Governor Blaine Friday confined the extradition hearing of the woman to the question whether Knute
B. Birkeland, Minneapolis businessman and retired minister died as the result of a crime.

The hearing in which the state of Minnesota is seeking the return of Mrs. Hodge from LaCrosse to Minneapolis in connection with finding of Birkeland's body in an apartment last December, was adjourned to 2 P. M.
Meanwhile, attorneys for both the woman and the state indicated that they would attempt to obtain from pathologists an expression of opinion as to whether an over-weight condition of Birkeland's heart was likely to have been a factor in his death.

Declaring the evidence showed prima facie that Mrs. Hodge is a fugitive from justice, Governor Blaine said it would be necessary to show that crime had been committed before an extradition could be granted.

DISSOLVE CASE

The state, through G. A. Youngquist and Charles E. Phillips, assistant attorneys general, revealed its theory as to the cause of Birkeland's death. The theory is that he was drugged and taken to the apartment
to prevent a lawsuit involving a note for approximately $8,000, initiated by him, from coming to trial, and that he died from the effect of the drug.

Affidavits were offered in which experts of the University of Minnesota, Drs. Bell and Brown, stated that post-mortem examinations failed to reveal any traces of poison or any evidences of physical violence or that death was due to unnatural cause. Dr. Brown stated, however, that there are some poisons, including chloroform, morphine and certain alkaloids, which cause death without leaving any trace of their administration.

The affidavits described the finding of the body, the clothing undisturbed except for loosening of the collar and shirt on two tables in an apartment
in Minneapolis.

Birkeland had retired from the ministry a number of years ago and had become interested in oil production in Texas. It was shown he also was treasurer of cemetery association.

Mrs. Hodge sat near her attorneys, listening calmly to the proceedings.
Attorneys for Mrs. Hodge told the executive they wanted to deny all of the charges concerning their client
and wanted to offer evidence to establish an alibi. Governor Blaine held that such evidence was not admissible because he was merely passing upon the right of extradition. The innocence or guilt of the woman was a question for the trial court to decide, in event she was placed on trial,
he said.

JUDGE CHECKMATES PAPER'S COURT TEST

Madison.—(AP)—An indefinite postponement was taken Friday in the court action by the Capital Times, Madison newspaper designed to determine the extent of the court's power in restrain-ing newspapers from publishing proceedings.

Circuit Judge A. C. Hoppmann continued the hearing on the order to show cause why the injunction preventing the Capital Times from printing the proceedings of the recent John Doe investigation should not be dissolved. The newspaper was restrained by Judge Hoppmann from divulging
the testimony in the inquiry which he conducted into charges that justice had been obstructed in the case of Rudolph Jessner, charged with slay-ing Patrolman Palmer Thompson.

URGE COMMUNIONS FOR SUCCESS OF CONGRESS

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—All Catholics in the United States estimated to number more than 20,000,000 will be asked to join a national communion Sunday for the success of the International Eucharistic congress, according to plans announced by officials of the congress
Friday.

Sunday, May 2, has been selected as the national communion day, and the plan is sponsored by Cardinal Mundelein.

MADISON SCHOOL HEAD OPPOSED TO ATHLETIC TOURNEYS

Madison.—(AP)—Charges that high school tournaments taking students away from their homes
endanger their morals were made Thursday night by Principal Volney G. Barnes of the Central high school in the controversy raised by the refusal of school authorities to permit Madison high school bands to participate in the state band tournament in Green Bay.

Principal Barnes' attitude won
the support of the high school parent-teachers association which opposed the bands entry in the tournament, after he described scenes at various tournaments.

"I have seen young boys in hot rooms with quart bottle after quart bottle of whisky emptied," Principal Barnes asserted. "Temptation to celebrate attacks the boys and girls when in a strange town
and even those of the best families are not immune."

FARMERS WILL ASK INCREASE IN TAX ON GAS

Council of Agriculture Wants Motorists to Pay More for Highways

Madison.—(AP)—A 2-cent increase in the state gasoline tax to cover the cost of maintaining county roads and permit the elimination for this purpose of the general property tax will be asked at the next session of the legislature by the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture. The council in acting favorably upon the proposition submitted by Hugh Harper, Lancaster,
president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation Tuesday, expressed belief that "General property has been paying too large a percentage of highway costs."

Commending the action of President
Coolidge increasing the butter tariff
the council asked that the maxim tariff protection also be extended to cream, cheese and milk.

The resolution will be presented to the president and the tariff commission
at hearings next week by R. H. Hibbard, agricultural economist of the University of Wisconsin, chairman of the council.

The council supports the present
efforts being made by the state dairy and food commission "to protect the public health and the dairy industry of Wisconsin from encroachment of dairy substitutes."

Action by the council on formulation of a land policy for Wisconsin
was deferred until the next meeting
in July, after the importance of utilizing the 11 million acres of cutover lands had been emphasized by forestry experts.

Captain C. P. Winslow of the Forest Products Laboratory, of the United States Department of Agriculture warned that Wisconsin must institute a program of reforestation if it wants to retain its hardwood using plants.

Test Right Of U. S. To Pass On Morals Of War Widows

Chicago, Ill.—(AP)—The right of the veterans bureau to pass on the morals
of a soldier's war insurance beneficiary is the question to be decided in federal court here. The point has been raised by Mrs. Corrine Hanna, of Chicago, widow of Major Mark W.
Hanna, Jr., a Kansas Citian who was killed in action in France.

For more than a year Mrs. Hanna has been seeking to force the government to resume payments to her husband's $10,000 war risk insurance policy. Three years ago the government removed her as beneficiary and stopped the payments, basing the action
on statutory charges investigated by the veterans bureau, as provided for in the morals provision of the insurance laws. Mrs. Hanna demands $8,000 she claims is due her as beneficiary of the policy and the government is endeavoring to compel her

MURDERS WIFE, 5 OTHERS AND THEN HIMSELF

Crazed Californian Goes on Killing Rampage When Wife Seeks Divorce

Placerville, Calif.—(AP)—John M.
Goins, Stockton real estate man, killed six persons Thursday and then ended his own life as he was possessioning him over dangerous mountain highways.

Hard pressed by posess, Goins sent a bullet into his brain as his automobile plunged over a mountain cliff
near Eldorado, a few miles from here, ending a day of tragedy in the upper San Joaquin valley.

Goins began his maniacal round of killings when he heard that his wife was seeking a divorce.

Goins went first to the Podesta
ranch, near Stockton, where he shot and killed his wife, and her sister, Mrs. Minnie Clark. Escaping from the ranch he returned to Stockton and sought the law office of George F. McNoble, husband of Mrs. McNoble who he had heard was advising Mrs.
Goins concerning a legal separation.
McNoble had also represented Goins
in a number of suits Goins had brought against the Southern Pacific Railroad and later against accident insurance companies as a result of a railway accident in which Goins lost
a foot.

BILLS LAWYER'S WIFE

Learning that McNoble was in San Francisco, the crazed man went to the McNoble home where he found the attorney's wife, whom he interrogated regarding Mrs. Goins' divorce plans. Mrs. McNoble denied any knowledge of them, whereupon Goins shot her three times, killing her almost instantly, as one of her children looked on.

Leaving Mrs. McNoble dead, Goins drove madly to Galt, about 24 miles north of Stockton and shot and killed Marcello, his wife and their daughter, Mrs. Dulma.

The motive for the Maringo killing,
aside from Goins' possible insanity
was that some years ago Maringo figured as a prosecuting witness in a charge of horsestealing against Goins.

POSSE ON TRAIL

From Galt, Goins started at a mad pace toward Placerville where he owned property. It is supposed he intended to go into hiding there. Meanwhile officers of four counties were on his trail and highways in all directions were guarded.

Raiding broadcast warnings to be on the lookout for the killer. The whole countrywide from Stockton to Sacramento was in a state of alarm.

The tragedy, however, was ended
as quickly as it started. As Captain Carel E. Slatterback, state traffic officer and W. S. Biggs, a supervisor of Eldorado, two of his pursuers bore down on him, Goins' car suddenly swerved from the road. The officers found the murderer with a bullet
from his own gun in his brain.

It all happened in the space of a few hours.

Vera And Carroll Split In Theatrical Venture

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The Countess of Cathcart and Earl Carroll appear to be at the parting of the ways
in their week-end venture as star and producer, respectively, of the Countess' play "Ashes of Love."

Carroll, who put on the play here
last Monday said in New York Thursday night that he had sold his interest to the Countess because she insisted upon an immediate presentation of it on Broadway. At the same time announcement, credited to the Countess,
was made here that she had asked Carroll to close down the show Saturday and cancel its New York engagement and that "he said he would think it over."

The Countess was represented as being already tired of the footlights,
while Carroll said she is seeking a theater in New York for her play.

The statement quoted Vera as blaming Carroll for the play's chilly reception here and in London saying he "mishandled" it as an autobiographical whereas it was "a psychological study of a woman going through unusual experiences" rather than a narrative of her elopement to South Atlanta with the Earl of Craven.

ASK BANKERS TO EXPLAIN ROAD FINANCING PLAN

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Kuhn
Loeb and Company, and the National City Bank, were asked Friday to send representatives to Washington to explain to the senate interstate commerce committee their plans for reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad including the amount they expected to receive for underwriting the plan.

The step was taken after Senator
Couzens, Republican, Michigan, and Gooding, Republican, Idaho, had demanded fuller information about the affairs of the road, which is in re-ceivership.

Senator Couzens suggested that the plan "had the earmarks of a conspiracy," and that its text, read to the committee "contained some pretty slippery language."

The committee was informed that out of the $70,000,000 to be obtained
by assessing stockholders, $10,000,000
would be for commissions, underwriting profits, and various other expenses of the reorganization.

GRAIN PRICES FALL ON CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago.—(AP)—Grain prices suffered a severe setback Friday, corn dropping to the lowest level this season,
and wheat falling 6 1/2 cents a bushel.
Talk was current that farm relief measures at Washington appeared unlikely of enactment and that crop prospects for United States wheat are almost ideal. May delivery of corn touched as low as 7 1/2 cents and May wheat 15 1/2.

Net losses for the day in wheat ranged from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 cents a bushel in corn from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents in the corn market, especially, buying support for the market was lacking and was confined almost entirely to previous speculative sellers who were in a position to collect a profit.

BULLETIN

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—The senate adjourned as soon as it met Friday
on motion of Senator Dale, Republican, Vermont, out of respect to Col. John
C. Coolidge, father of the president.

Plymouth, Vt.—(AP)—President Coolidge came home to Plymouth today.
At 10:10 the president arrived at the white farm house where his father Col. John C. Coolidge lay dead. He was driven to Plymouth from Woodstock, accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, their son John, Attorney General Sargent and Major James F. Coupal,
White House physician.

The presidential party arrived in sleighs, having left their automobiles
at Bridgewater Corners for the last seven miles of snow covered roads. A military guard saluted the executives
as he turned from the main highway
into the road leading to his old home.
At the farm house, the president was the first to enter, followed closely by Mrs. Coolidge and John. A battery of cameras mounted on a foot, snowihous beside the porch clicked as the party passed into the house of mourning.

MILITARY ESCORT OFFERED COOLIDGE

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—A military escort for the funeral of Col. John C. Coolidge was offered to the White House Friday by the war department, through Assistant Secretary MacNider. The offer was referred to Plymouth.

Should the President decide upon such military representation, a squadron of cavalry from Fort Etham, Vermont, would make the journey to the Coolidge homestead. The squadron has been ordered to stand in readiness.

his family into the Coolidge home.

Across the road in front of the general store the entire population of the village stood in silence as the president passed.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Major Coupal announced that the funeral would be held from the house
at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev.
John White, Episcopal clergyman of Sherburne, will be in charge. Burial will be in the little cemetery here
where many members of the Coolidge family lie.

The decision to hold the funeral service at the house instead of the church was taken, it was indicated, at the President's wish. It was recalled that his stepmother, who died six years ago, was buried from the white farm house. Mr. Coolidge's own mother died while he was very young and the second Mrs. Coolidge occupied a high place in his affections.

After an hour's stay at his father's home the President and Mrs. Coolidge returned to Woodstock. They planned to remain there probably not returning to Plymouth until Saturday.

DIES DURING NIGHT

The father of the president died at 10:41 Thursday night. In two weeks
he would have been 81 years old.

Leaving Washington in the afternoon when news came that the inevitable ending of his father's protracted illness was in sight, the president was hurried to New York and Bridgewater, Conn. on his special train as his father died. The news was given to the train at Bridgewater about an hour after death occurred.

In Northampton, Mass., at 3 a. M.
John Coolidge joined the train for the trip to his grandfather's birthplace at Amherst, which his father also attended. He went by trolley eight miles to Northampton and for three hours paced the station platform, the station having been closed on time at midnight while he waited.

FAILING FOR WEEK

A long and valiant struggle with illness and age ended when Col. Coolidge gave up the spark of life after a week of steadily failing strength. A be the beginning of the end. His passing was without pain and very peaceful.

CHILDREN LEARN TO PLAY PIANO IN ONE LESSON

Interesting Demonstration of New Music Instruction at Lawrence Chapel

Students representing Roosevelt Junior high school were better acquainted with the piano and folk songs of America than were the groups representing Wilson and McKinley Junior high schools, in the memory contest conducted at the demonstration of public school music directed by Dr. Earl L. Baker, instructor in public school music in Appleton in Lawrence Memorial chapel Thursday night. Fifty well known American songs were played on the piano by Miss Irene Edwell, and groups of 25 students from each of the three Junior high schools and the audience were asked how many knew by name. Roosevelt school had a score of 93 per cent, Wilson 82 per cent correct, and McKinley school 79 per cent correct.

RECOGNIZE OWN SONGS
Some weeks ago Dr. Baker found that the children in the Appleton public schools were not acquainted with the music of their own country as they were with the music of Russia, Italy, and other European countries. A test was made on Black Joe, the time on the song Old Joe, the tune being played on the piano, and the children were asked to identify it. The children called it names of Home Sweet Home, Annie Laurie, Swanee River, and Yankee Doodle.
Dr. Baker said that he believed the children of this generation did not hear the old patriotic and folk songs of America sung as did past generations, and the idea of a memory contest which was put on Thursday night was then instigated. A silver cup awarded to Roosevelt school for winning the contest.

MUSIC DEMONSTRATION
The first demonstration in instrumental music was of bugles and drums. Dr. Baker showed that the importance of the bugle was not in that special instrument alone, but that its close relation in principle to other more complicated instruments as the cornet and trombone, made the playing of the bugle of value to children. He demonstrated that bugle was merely the first step to other wind instruments. He showed the keen sense of rhythm that beating a drum developed in children. The instruments were donated to the schools by the Lions club last fall, he said.

Learning to play the piano in class instruction was the third demonstration given by the pupils of Dr. Baker. Mrs. Laura Brigham has assisted in this type of instruction in the schools. Twenty children in the group had no piano instruction until three weeks ago when class teaching was started. Each of these 20 children learned to play three new songs on the piano during the demonstration Thursday night.

The method of teaching the songs was to play the tune, and let the children learn to sing it by rote, then the same song was taught by the do, re, mi method, which they have learned in the public schools. The do, re, mi are then assigned to the fingers, a note for each finger, and the child was asked to "play the piece in the air" with his fingers. The mechanical key boards and key finders used in class instruction on the piano were then brought out, middle C was made to represent do, and the children picked out the notes on the key board with middle C as a basis.

THREE AT A TIME
The children were finally sent to the pianos, groups of three to each of the two pianos, given by the Irving Zuehlke Music company for the demonstration and the child sitting at the piano played the tune he had learned at the mechanical keyboard. The second child tapped the rhythm on the shoulder of the child playing, and slid into the seat at the piano at a signal from the instructor, then the third child took the place of the second. The director during this performance listened to the child playing while he watched those who were playing at their mechanical key-boards.

The playing of chords with the left hand was next demonstrated. Through this class instruction, given free to all pupils for the first ten weeks, the conservatory will pick out those who have talent. Dr. Baker announced, and will ask their parents to let these children continue the lessons at a small cost per lesson, but those who do not show talent will be eliminated. This method of instruction makes it possible for any child to learn the piano without access to an instrument at home, at least at first, the director said.

The operetta, "Miss Caruthers Returns" was given by the students of the public school music department of Lawrence conservatory following the demonstration.

STUDENTS HEAR FIFIELD DISCUSS GAME OF LIFE

Playing the Game of Life, was the address given by Dr. L. Wendell Fifield, pastor of the First Congregational church of Sioux Falls, S. D., who is in Appleton to conduct a series of Lenten meetings under the auspices of the First Congregational church, at a general assembly meeting at Appleton high school Friday morning. The talk was the same that Dr. Fifield gave at the meeting of the Rotary club Tuesday noon.

"The game of Life," the speaker said, is a serious proposition, and earnest aims of the player are essential to its success. A definite goal in life is another requisite toward successful accomplishment, the speaker maintained.

NETTIE EARLE IS FINED, ORDERED FROM APPLETON

Myrtle King, Companion, Fined $15 Upon Her Plea
of Guilty

Nettie Earle, alleged keeper of a disorderly house on N. Appleton-st., paid a fine of $100 and was ordered to leave the city immediately, following her plea of guilty late Thursday afternoon in municipal court. Myrtle King, arrested with Miss Earle, pleaded guilty through her attorney to a charge of being an inmate of a disorderly house. She was fined $15. Miss King left Appleton some time ago. Costs of $15.48 were divided between the women.

Padlock proceedings against Miss Earle's property on N. Appleton-st. were continued indefinitely. The women were arrested in a raid on the house Saturday evening, Jan. 30, but the case was twice postponed since the preliminary hearing on Feb. 12. The first postponement was caused by a mistake in the description of the property involved in the case, and the second was due to the absence of the defendants' attorney.

MAIL AD MATTER DURING MIDDLE OF EVERY MONTH

Herman J. Franck, Assistant Postmaster, Talks to Advertising Club

Business executives and merchants should mail their advertising in the middle of the month to insure speedy handling by the postoffice rather than at the beginning or end of a month when the mails are especially heavy. Herman J. Franck, assistant postmaster, said at a meeting of the Advertising Club of Appleton Thursday noon at Hotel Northern. Mr. Franck pointed out several ways in which the post-office helps advertisers.

The speaker said that considerable difficulty was experienced by postal clerks in handling advertising matter improperly addressed. He also said that many advertisers have difficulties in mailing because they do not read the postal regulations carefully and that when their material goes astray or is not delivered promptly they blame the postoffice when the fault is really their own.

MAILING LIST
One of the most valuable services the postoffice gives to advertisers is the maintenance of an accurate mailing list. Names of persons who have moved away from town or have died are immediately stricken from the list and names of those who have moved here are added so that the roster is kept up to date every day.

Mr. Franck stated that there was plenty of work left for Appleton men in advertising their own products as there was enough money sent out to mail order houses from this city annually to support five more ordinary sized retail establishments in the city.

Following the address the chairman of the two membership teams made preliminary reports on the membership drive which the club intends to carry on in the near future. Herbert Kahn is chairman of the industrial team and William W. Frank heads the retail team.

Quaker Oats "stands by" you through the morning

Important for Children and Grown-Ups Alike

HOW you feel all morning depends largely on what you eat for breakfast. Thousands have unenergetic forenoons because of wrong breakfast eating.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 58% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

It is food that "stands by" you through the morning. Food that should start every breakfast in your home.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you.

Any farmer permitting his herd to be tested at present is doing so at his own risk unless the dairy company to which he is selling agrees to assume the loss of indemnity, according to Dr. Borman. There is no assurance that any indemnity will ever be received for cattle tested at this time, Dr. Borman said.

There are possibilities that some way may be found to resume the work but nothing definite is available at this time. With the funds exhausted the testing probably will be at a complete standstill in the county.

FAMOUS TROUT STREAM CLOSED

Indian Agency Prohibits Fishing on Evergreen River
This Year

Appleton fishermen whose plans for the opening day of the trout fishing season contemplated a trip to the Evergreen river in the Menominee Indian reservation will now be forced to change their arrangements for the river has been closed to fishing by the United States government. Indian Agency at Keshena, Appleton fishermen were notified Thursday of the agency's action. Dells Creek in the reservation also has been closed.

This action was taken in order to permit propagation of fish in those streams. Hundreds of fishermen frequented the two famous fishing grounds in the last few years and as a result they are almost "fished out."
It is believed that if they are closed for a year or two good fishing will be restored.

The Wolf river, the West and South branches of the Oconto and West French creek and other trout streams in the reservation are not effected by the closing order. It is probable that one or more of these streams will be closed after the Evergreen and Dells creek are reopened for fishing.

SPUD PRICES CLIMB AS SUPPLY DIMINISHES

Potatoes either are scarce articles on farms near Appleton, or else farmers who have a plentiful supply of spuds are not letting anyone else know about it, for local grocers seem to be having difficulty keeping pace with the demand and the prices are soar-ing accordingly. Spuds are now being sold for 70 and 75 cents a peck.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Quick Relief

No Need of Strong Medicines or Diet—
Famous but Simple Old English
Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition, Banishes After-Eating Distress

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gasp! Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meals or overeat
of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring
acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bismarck Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bismarck Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Be sure and get BISMARCK MAG-NESIA—not a laxative. adv.

AN ATTACK ON THE MIDWEST
The senate is to vote on the Gooding bill March 21th. This measure would in effect prohibit trans-continental rail competition with intercoastal and inland waterway boatlines. It would by law prevent the Interstate Commerce commission from authorizing lower rates for a long than for a shorter haul. At the present time this authority is within the discretion of the commission.
The bill is a vital thrust at the commercial and industrial interests of the mid-west. If it is enacted it will prevent the railroads in the central western territory, principally out of Chicago, from putting into effect, with the approval of the Interstate Commerce commission, lower tariffs to the Pacific coast than apply to intermountain points. It is only by granting the railroads this privilege that they can compete with shipping from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast via the Panama canal. It follows that if the right is denied permanently it will have a highly injurious effect upon producers and manufacturers in the mid-west by depriving them of Pacific coast markets. Many shippers have already lost these markets by reason of inability to compete with Atlantic coast carriers.
It does not follow if the law is left as it is that the Interstate Commerce commission will abuse its authority in the fixing of Pacific coast rates for the trans-continental lines. Only the other day it denied an application by the railroads for lower rates on certain commodities. It uses its power with discretion, taking into consideration all elements and all interests at stake. It tries to be fair to both the east and the mid-west. If the Gooding bill becomes a law, it takes this discretion out of the hands of the Interstate Commerce commission, and establishes a rigid distance basis of rate making, which must inevitably work a great injustice to the railroads and to mid-west shippers.
The proposition that cities and localities should profit by their proximity to water and by cheap water transportation is sound, but it would be neither fair nor sound to contend that railroads should not be permitted to compete with steamship lines for traffic within certain limitations. They should not be permitted to carry traffic extensively at a loss merely to destroy steamship lines. They should be allowed to publish tariffs that enable them to haul goods at a profit, even though in violation of the long and short principle. Presumably their rates could not be as low as water rates, but time, service and other elements would be taken into account in determining the effectiveness of their competition. Our national policy should be to develop both agencies of transportation.
If the trans-continental railroads have to give up traffic from the mid-west to the Pacific coast because they are not allowed to publish rates competitive with the water haul through the Panama canal, when they can do so profitably, this, it seems to us, would be unjust both to them and to mid-west shippers. We think the fixing of these rates is a judicial question to be determined by circumstances as they concern all parts of the country, and that this judicial power should remain in the hands of the Interstate Commerce commission. Any attempt to lay down hard and fast rules in the fixing of freight rates inevitably means discrimination and injury. It would spread chaos all over the country. The Gooding bill is wrong in principle because it attempts to legislate rates.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS
The Capital Times of Madison is engaged in a legal controversy with Judge A. C. Hoppman to test the right of the court to hold secret sessions and to issue injunctions prohibiting newspapers from printing what transpires at such proceedings. The statement is made that the judge is in the habit of holding closed sessions. The trouble is over a court action concerning the shooting of a Madison policeman. The court, it appears, issued an injunction against the Capital Times preventing it from publishing the proceedings. The judge has also been asked to cite the editor of the Capital Times for contempt because of editorial protest. At the hearing of the shooting case last week, the editor and other members of the Times staff were called as witnesses, but all were prohibited from printing what transpired. The Times has now brought action to secure a copy of the testimony and announce it will publish it if the judge's injunction is held illegal. It is expected the issue will be taken to the supreme court.
The controversy is important alike to the press and the public. We do not know what the circumstances are in this particular case, and we can conceive that there are cases which, both in justice to parties concerned and in conformance with sound public policy, should be held behind closed doors. On the other hand, it is not only possible, but it is a fact, that this self-acquired prerogative is often abused, and occasionally outrageously. When that happens the public interests are subverted and free speech and a free press denied. The reasons for suppressing publicity should be clear cut and outstanding, as any reputable newspaper would immediately recognize. Such cases rarely occur. It would be better to make no exceptions and have open hearings in all cases, leaving publication to the integrity and judgment of newspapers than to destroy freedom of the press. The press is the one inflexible, dependable barrier against misgovernment, venality and injustice. To throttle it would be to wipe out social and political security.
It is hard to say what circumstances could justify a secret hearing in a shooting trial. It looks as though it were more or less a personal fight between the newspaper and the court. If that is the case the court is in the wrong, regardless of the provocation by the newspaper. Of one thing we may be sure, the newspapers of America will never submit to judicial tyranny and in defying it they unquestionably would be supported by the people. It is said the supreme court of Wisconsin has not passed on the question raised at Madison. It is to be hoped, therefore, the case will be taken to that tribunal.

BRAVERY
A sailor in the United States navy deserted, was caught, and got sent to the naval prison at Portsmouth, N. H. On the expiration of his term he was to get a dishonorable discharge.
But one day at Portsmouth he showed himself a hero. He jumped into icy water, risked his own life, and rescued two of his guards who were near death from drowning. So Secretary Wilbur has commuted his sentence and restored him to good standing in the navy.
Secretary Wilbur acted wisely. A chap like that ought to be valuable to any navy.

TODAY'S POEM
By HAL COCHRAN
THE Grouch
He lives around our neighborhood. You've seen him there, no doubt. He doesn't know what joy and fun and laughter are about. It seems to irritate him when he hears the young folk shout, and from the look upon his face, he always seems put out.
They call him grouch, and maybe that's the name that fits him best. I've heard a lot of people say he's nothing but a pest. He spreads the sort of spirit that can never stand the test that's passed by any fellow who's a mighty welcome guest.
Wherever he may travel he's extremely out of place. He always has that downcast look of sourness on his face. It's really rather sad, but true, his his type sets the pace that always kinda irritates the friendly human race.
And yet, why people scorn him I have ne'er quite understood. At best, the scolding habit never does you any good. Perhaps the world might change him if 'twould plant the proper seeds. It seems to me that sympathy is what this fellow needs.
About the only thing some folks are shy of is shyness.
Another nice thing about the cooler weather is five toes in one shoe don't seem quite so many.
In Afghanistan, kids of five years marry; while in America, married couples often act that age.
No matter what they do to their hair, a split curl always will look as if it needs pulling.
The big towns have broadcasting stations, but the small towns have their party line telephones.
What we want to know is should you stop a woman from cussing before a lady?

SEASICKNESS
The immediate cause of seasickness, says Dr. P. H. Denness, port medical officer for a large shipping company, is the oscillation of the ship about its various axes due to the action of the waves and the ground swell. To this constant rise and fall, pitch and roll enough, it sounds, to bring on an attack, just thinking about it, is added a minor factor, the fine unrelenting tremor or vibration transmitted from the engines through the framework of the ship. In large motor ships this factor is reduced.
Deaf mutes, young infants, and persons who have had destructive disease of both internal ear structures never become seasick.
One theory of the nature of seasickness is that the vomiting, irregular bringing up, pallor, sweating and dizziness are produced by overflow of stimulating impressions from the labyrinth in the internal ear structure to nearby nerve centers in the brain. The labyrinth is a delicate mechanism of lymph canals serving as a gyroscope, and enabling us to keep our balance.
The bird who suffers mal de mer on slight provocation may take comfort in the knowledge that albatross, parrots and macaws also appear to be subject. Likewise monkeys.
Eyes strain, improperly fitted glasses, and prolonged gazing at the white water rushing by or the sun glare on the distant water does the trick for some people. Blind persons may get seasick.
Perhaps the most satisfactory explanation of the phenomenon is reversed peristalsis, that is, the waves of motion in the alimentary tube go in the wrong direction, the vagus (sympathetic, autonomic) nerve control of peristalsis being upset by the excitement of the voyage. On this conception the most successful prevention and treatment is based.
But this routine has proved fairly effective for preventing seasickness in case an individual is subject to it yet must go on a voyage:
1. Begin two days before the journey and continue for the first two or three days of the voyage, taking each morning on rising half a bottle of solution of citrate of magnesia.
2. Morning, noon and night, at least an hour from mealtime, take internally from two to four drops of tincture of belladonna (assuming you weigh from 20 to 150 pounds) in a little water, or a moderate dose of the active principle of belladonna, atropin, in tablet form. A moderate dose of atropin is from one four-hundredth to one two-hundredth of a grain.
3. Immediately upon boarding ship lightly pack in each ear canal a cone of gauze or some lamb's wool, to dull all sounds, and wear this for the first two or three days of the voyage.
The Barany chair, in which the subject is revolved through various planes to test the integrity of his labyrinthine gyroscope function, came into prominence as one of the tests for prospective airplane pilots in the world war. Dr. Louis Fisher finds that many subjects become immune to seasickness after several whirling. If none of your parlor chairs is a Barany, you might cultivate the somewhat habit as a means of training against seasickness.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
"What Care"
Please inform me what care one needs during compensation in leakage of the heart. (Mrs. B. R.)
Answer—Medical. Only the skilled physician is capable of guiding you in the matters of rest and exercise, that you may derive the greatest benefit from these and no injury.
Humidifying The Baby's Air
I do the baby's washing every day, take the clothes out to freeze and then bring them into the living room to dry. Does this harm the baby who sleeps there in the room? (Mrs. R. A.)
Answer—No. It either improves the air for the baby to breathe, for babies, like older persons, suffer much from the excessive dryness of the artificial, warmed atmosphere.

DAD'S LULLABY
Hoty, toty, cake and pie, come now, youngster, don't you cry. Mister Sandman, bye and bye, plans to close your little eye.
Rockin', rockin', to and fro, Down we come and up we go. First it's fast and then it's slow. Toodle, toodle, toddle, toddle.
Ride the road that seems so steep, Happy playtime's sure to keep. Quiet youngster, don't you peep.
Little paddies, held so tight, Time to turn down low the light. Peace and quiet through the night. Rockin' left and rockin' right.
Now we're on our way to bed, Wide-awake all has fled. Softly, softly is the tread. To the trundle bed we're led.
Maybe silly—maybe sad. Still it makes a youngster glad. Verse like this each lot has had—rocked to sleep at night by dad.
The best way to get people to telling you about their children is to start talking about your own.

FATHER—How many times have I told you to keep out of the cellar?
SON—You'd hardly say the telephone girl has either a business or a profession. Just a calling.

One of the best known American customs is to drive to a garage when a tire hisses its swan song.
And, if it weren't for the good-natured fellow who removes the bad tire and puts on the spare, a heck of a lot of us would be in a heck of a lot of trouble.
Think of the peace of mind when he finishes his job—and you go merrily on your way.
He's glad you're gone—and you're glad he's through.
We don't know who invented the first garage man—but thanks, anyway.

Q. How can oil be collected from tobacco? G. H. M.
A. There is no essential oil in tobacco.
Q. What do butterflies and bees eat? M. C.
A. Butterflies feed on the nectar of flowers and the sap of trees and plants. The various flowers, etc., vary with those found in a locality. All adult bees feed on saccharine juices, particularly the nectar of flowers. It is the habit of bees to devote their searching to a single sort of flower as long as it serves their purpose, each individual visiting blossom after blossom of that kind, instead of searching flowers indiscriminately. This varies with the locality.
Q. What is the meaning of the Indian name "Canadotta"?
A. The English equivalent is "standing place."
Q. Why is Bailey's comet so famous? M. Q. J.
A. Bailey's comet is famous because it was the first whose periodicity was predicted. This was in 1794 but the verification did not take place until 1795.
Q. Which are more economical, dim electric light bulbs or bright ones? C. F. S.
A. A dim bulb may draw as much electrical power as a bulb the light from which is brilliant. This applies in the case of a high powered bulb, the strength of which is diminishing, what one regards as economical enters into the problem in another way. From the standpoint of actual expenditure of money, dim electrical bulbs which are now are probably less economical than the brighter ones.
Q. What are the tests for woolen cloth? C. F. S.
A. Wool fibers are short and kinky. They give a characteristic sensation when drawn between the teeth, smokers' hands stories down to sons; troubadours made a living by chanting them to court that could neither read or write.
But Ernest Boyd, international literary critic, believes that there is no serious danger that the radio will crowd out the book. Or rather, he does not believe that the radio will ever crowd out the really worth while novel, because it was over the novel that the discussion arose. He thinks that the radio will have absolutely no effect on the reading of novels that are genuine works of art and he thinks that the great novelist will continue to have the same audience that they had before the radio was thought of.
AFFECT JAZZ NOVEL
He admits that the jazz novel will probably be affected and will drop in sales as a result of the American people's preoccupation with the radio. There are only a limited number of hours for entertainment in the average person's day and if he gives those hours to the radio he cannot give them to his favorite best seller. But the great novels—I am quoting Ernest Boyd in substance—have never depended for readers who can be kept away from it by the radio. The reader of the great novel probably owns a radio like everybody else and uses it from time to time, but his interest in the word artistry of Conrad or Galsworthy or Knut Hamsun or Anatole France or George Moore is so strong that no radio can keep him away from these writers. He will give about as much time to them as he ever did and will take the radio time out of other recreations.
This is theory but it is probably true. The great novels are not so very numerous. Almost any busy man can manage to read most of those published in any given year by devoting a few hours a week to them. The great novels are few enough so that they have never taken up the full amount of time that almost anyone has for reading if he cares for reading at all. Most people each year, even if their taste is of the very best, fill in with many books that are second best or third best.
A quarter of a century ago about the same thing was said with regard to the automobile. Authors complained that the automobile would crowd out the book. A little later it was the movie that would cause starvation among the novelists. No one would take the trouble to wade through 300 pages of print when he could get the whole story in two hours at the expenditure of 25 cents.
NOVEL STILL POPULAR
But those predictions did not come true. The novel is still holding its own and is being read by the hundreds of thousands. Even the novel of no artistic importance has not suffered very greatly. Since 1909 the total sales of novels in America has doubled and tripled and perhaps quadrupled. The number of readers in proportion to the total population has increased enormously. And as for very great novels, the audiences for these have always been somewhat limited. It is doubtful if anything can touch them. It is likely there will always be enough people who are interested in the higher forms of fiction to make the writing of it worth while. The stuff of life that the great novelist deals in can never be portrayed over the radio or through any other medium.

Adventures In The Library

WILL THE RADIO CROWD OUT BOOKS?
A well known writer has voiced the complaint that the radio will make us a nation of non-readers. With millions of radios in American homes and thousands being added every day, he thinks that soon there will be no time left in any home to read, books will become obsolete, publishing houses will go into bankruptcy, authors will die of starvation and culture will become purely auditory.
Even if this should come about, there is nothing to prove that it would be a calamity. It would be merely a return, with modern frills, to state of things that once existed in the world and that did not prevent deathless literature from being produced. Once practically all culture was by word of mouth, poems were recited instead of were told around the fire, each narrator taking up the story where the other left off; fathers handed stories down to sons; troubadours made a living by chanting them to court that could neither read or write.
But Ernest Boyd, international literary critic, believes that there is no serious danger that the radio will crowd out the book. Or rather, he does not believe that the radio will ever crowd out the really worth while novel, because it was over the novel that the discussion arose. He thinks that the radio will have absolutely no effect on the reading of novels that are genuine works of art and he thinks that the great novelist will continue to have the same audience that they had before the radio was thought of.

WOMEN USE FAGS BY THE BILLION
Each Year Total Sales of Cigarets to Femines Increase Greatly
John Volgamort, in Liberty.
The woman of the United States smoked 9,000,000,000 cigarettes in 1925. As long ago as 1923, the girls and women in the United States smoked 7,000,000,000 cigarettes. And in 1922 the total sales of cigarettes to both men and women ran to at least 50,000,000. You see them, here there, everywhere of late—in restaurants, offices and the lobbies of hotels, at football games and, so course, at home—touching matches to the thin tobacco-filled tubes.
No coughing. No burned fingers. No eyes that suddenly all with anguish tears. The smoke curls delicately from accustomed nostrils. The ash is discarded with precisely the proper flick of disdain. The ladies' technique has acquired, in short, the perfection of practice.
Persons who deplore the habit may note the figures and weep for the Julius Rosenwald foundation, which piled them and they are presumably accurate.
In 1924 the total sales of cigarettes were more than 71,000,000,000, about 8,000,000,000 of which were consumed by women. In the first nine months of 1925 more than 6,000,000,000 cigarettes were sold to American men and women.

RELIGION TAKES DRUDGERY OUT OF DAY'S TASKS

Dr. Fifield Tells Audience
What Religion Can Accomplish for Humanity

Religion and the Day's Work was the subject of the address by Dr. L. Wendell Fifield of Sioux Falls, S. D., who is the chief speaker at the ten-day mission sponsored by the First Congregational church this week at the Bijou theatre Thursday noon, when he spoke of the real satisfaction religion may become when it is made a part of life, not merely an accessory.

"Some people," he said, "are mainly interested in religion because it gets you to heaven after you die. It does but many want it also because it transforms the common day's work. To one class of people the daily task is drudgery, to others it is an opportunity and joy. Religion is the dynamic that changes us from one of those classes to the other."

Dean Carl J. Waterman of Lawrence, Kan., who conducted the singing at the meeting.

What the Bible Teaches Us About Health was the text of the sermon given by Dr. Fifield at the afternoon at the First Congregational church, illustrated with instances from the life of Jesus, but he emphasized that the body did not take precedence over the spirit to Jesus. Miss Isabel Wilcox sang a solo, "At Evening 'Ere the Sun Has Set."

Dr. Fifield traced the growing idea of God in the Bible from the human God who walked in the garden of Eden to the Heavenly Father of Jesus Christ in his address on "A God Who Cares," in his address on "A God Who Cares," in the First Congregational church Thursday evening. Miss Eleanor M. Gibben sang "He is Mindful of His Own from Mendelsohn's Elijah." A young people's rally at 4:30 Sunday afternoon was announced to be on the subject of "The Greatest Adventure in the World."

DANCING SHOW HAS BETTER GIRLS TODAY

New York—(AP)—Chorus girls of today are of a much higher type and from better families than those of the old days, believes Neil Weyburn, who has directed the dancing in five-hundred Broadway shows.

This he attributes to the more rigid requirements of audiences and the resultant necessity of real talent and proper training on the part of the girls.

"Why, today more ability is required of a chorus girl than was demanded of a principal five years ago," he said. "The modern chorus is highly trained and in many musical comedies each member is really a solo dancer. "With so many girls seeking places it is only natural that the best trained are selected. The training is more expensive than formerly, which may explain why many families well-financed financially are represented in the chorus.

"The old stigma against the stage is missing, for the type of girls that gave it a bad name virtually has been eliminated through the strict requirements. Logically, this improvement in conditions has materially lessened the opposition of our better families to their daughters going on the stage."

The director who trained Marilyn Miller, Ruth Laird, Ann Pennington, Gilda Gray, Claire Luce, Fred and Adele Astaire, Oscar Shaw and many other Broadway stars, predicts the chorus girls of the future will be faced with even greater requirements.

MUST HAVE PERMIT TO ATTEND CAGE TOURNEY

Students of Appleton high school are not encouraged by school authorities to go to Madison to attend the state basketball tournament, which next week, it was announced Thursday, anyone who wishes to go will be required to have written permit from his parents, or else accept a grade reduction for the classes missed, according to the recent ruling governing unexcused absences. The reason for discouraging attendance of students at the tournament games, the principal said, was that practically a week of classes would be missed.

NAYLOR WILL WRITE BIOGRAPHY OF BISHOP

Dr. Wilson S. Naylor, dean of Lawrence, will spend the recess between the college winter and spring terms in Cincinnati with Bishop Joseph C. Hartzell, whose biography Dean Naylor is planning to write. Dean Naylor will leave to visit Dr. Hartzell when school closes Wednesday of next week.

Dean Naylor traveled with the bishop in Africa for one year, from which trip came his book "Darkbreak in the Dark Continent." Bishop Hartzell was at the head of the Methodist Church in Africa for twenty-four years.

Woman Serves As Rural Mail Carrier Out Of New London

W. F. WINSEY
Among the two or three women serving as rural mail carriers for Uncle Sam in Wisconsin is Mrs. Raymond V. Prah, New London, who has been substituting on route 5, New London, for her husband, continuously the past year and at frequent intervals before that.

In just years when roads were almost impassable, Mrs. Prah was temporarily relieved of her strenuous duties by a masculine substitute, but she was invariably reassigned to them when travel improved.

This winter, however, Mrs. Prah remained at her job throughout and when country roads were blocked in February she replaced her car with a horse.

Up to the time of storing her car she was of the opinion that acquiring skill in the management of a horse was beyond her power. Even though she had seen hundreds of horses, she had never attempted to drive one. But when a blizzard blocked her route on a discouraging day in February, she was obliged to resort to a horse for the first time.

DOESN'T MISS TRIP
And aside from the snorting, shying at steam snow plows and breaking speed laws when headed toward

Baby tortured by skin trouble Completely restored to health by Resinol

St. Louis, Mo., May 25:—"My baby was suffering from an irritated skin which several salves I tried would not heal. After using two jars of Resinol Ointment, her skin was completely restored to its healthy condition. I will no longer be without Resinol and after my experience, I will gladly say that it is all you claim it to be and will highly recommend its use for even the tenderest skin." (Signed) Mrs. E. W. Koppen, 3515 Juniata Ave.

Prah keeps her feet outside the cutter on its lower side so that in case of emergency she could slide out and prevent the cutter from dumping its load of mail.

Whatever the advantage of using a horse may be, the pleasure of mail by car is always a pleasure. Larding the inconvenience of an untimely puncture, a deep mud hole or an occasional empty gas tank, according to Mrs. Prah. But the hardships of either method of delivery are lessened by expressions of appreciation from the people she serves.

The first four miles of her route skirts the Wolf river from New London, and the balance of the route stretches this way and that through Mukwa and Lebanon townships, 21 miles in all passing a number of the most prosperous farms of Waupaca co.

PATRONS ARE KIND

During arctic weather, Mrs. Prah's trips have been brightened often by invitations to the home of her patrons. Often when she opens a mail box, she finds a package addressed to herself by some appreciative patron.

Mrs. Prah's work is really an afterglow of the World War. After serving as mail carrier on route 5, New London, seven years, Raymond V. Prah offered his services to his country for the duration of the World War. After nine months in the Great Lakes training camp, Mr. Prah was incapacitated, assigned to light duty and finally returned to his home.

Several times he resumed work on his mail route, but each time he was compelled to give it up. Finally, he suffered a nervous breakdown and was assigned to a government hospital at Waukesha. After his departure for the hospital, Mrs. Prah fought her home battles more publically than before by substituting for her husband on his mail route. As a result she is now recognized as one of those heroines whose fighting qualities were exposed and developed by the war.

He exerts so much energy in snow drifts, however, that as a precaution in the most dangerous places Mrs.

PRIEST DEVOTES LIFE TO MAKING CURIOUS GROTTO

How a Clergyman During Spare Time Builds Monument
to Christ's Resurrection

West Bend, Iowa.—(AP)—A grotto as a monument to Christ's redemption containing stones, ores, fossils, petrifications, shells and corals from every state in the union, has been erected here by the Rev. Father P. M. Dobberstein.

Already some 168,000 visitors have come to see the work since its construction was begun seven years ago. Seven more years will be required to complete the task, which Father Dobberstein has assigned as his life work. He has traveled many thousands of miles in the quest of stones, minerals, coral and other articles. Nine car loads of material have been used. Ten more will be needed. When finished the grotto will cover almost a block.

"It is the avowed purpose of the builder," Father Dobberstein said, "to leave the grotto as a love work for his fellow men. Thus the grotto will be of value to all, teaching the valuable use of one's spare time and how every talent in a man may be usefully employed by a wise economy of one's spare time for the benefit of all."

The priest, who is pastor of St. Peter and St. Paul's Catholic church in this little hamlet, devotes all of his spare time to his task. His personality sets each pile of stone, coral, or other article in cement, having adopted patience as a watchword in his long undertaking, as a lesson to others.

The grotto is reminiscent of the early church when Christians, fearful of pagans bent on persecution, dug caves to prevent the doctrines of the lowly Nazarene from falling into the hands of enemies. One section, called the "Garden of Eden," will symbolize disobedience to God. The tree of life will be shown worked in stone. Adam and Eve who yielded to the tempter will be seen standing under this tree with their eyes raised beholding the forbidden fruit. The serpent will be depicted along a wall winding around the tree with open mouth as if grasping the apple. Underneath the tree will be the inscription:

"Paradise lost."

The grotto proper takes the leading part of the whole cluster of the work. No journey seems to long for Father Dobberstein in quest of material. His last trip carried him about 7,000 miles. He has done considerable other work along the same line.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT—$11.76—Prepared, authorized, published and paid for by Albert C. Rife, 227 E. So. River St.

To the Voters of the City of Appleton:

Since I have announced my candidacy for Mayor I have been asked why I am asking the voters to elect me to an office that pays $1800 per year, when in all probability I could be elected Assessor at a salary of $2500? Feeling that the voters are entitled to an explanation I am giving my reasons for this preference.

When I was first elected in 1921 the salary was $2100 with about 1-3 of the work that the office requires at the present time. I was able to do a little auditing and income tax work after office hours and it paid me fairly well. The work in the Assessor's office has increased every year until last year I was compelled to devote so much overtime to the office that I have practically lost all of the extra work.

In the Assessor's office during the month of April, May, June and July and part of August you are compelled to work from 7 A. M. until 8 or 9 P. M. every day and work every Saturday afternoon. If you do not do this the Clerk and Treasurer will not get the books in time to start collecting taxes on January 1st. The rest of the year you are busy checking sales, looking up Real Estate transfers, getting out an automobile list for the next year, recording Building permits, and getting your field books ready for the next year's work and this takes more than the regular time.

The city council, and I feel they acted according to their best judgment, refused to increase the salary of the office $400 per year. Now my position is that I can work for $1800 in the Mayor's office and not spend any time on city work before 9 A. M. or after 5 P. M. except nights the Council meets, and what time I will probably have to help the assessor the first year. This will give me a chance to make up the auditing and Tax work that I have lost, whereby the other office requires so much overtime that it is practically impossible to get any time for other things, especially during the summer months. That is, with this extra work I can earn as much money in the Mayor's office as I can in the Assessor's office and not work one-half as hard.

The report has been circulated that if I was not elected Mayor, I would still hold the office of Assessor, this is not right as I did not file nomination papers for Assessor, and cannot have that office again. Before the present candidates for Assessor filed their papers I assured them that I would not be a candidate, they have been to considerable trouble and expense, and in fairness to them I cannot run for that office, and at the present time there is no legal way in which my name could be placed on the ticket.

I wish to assure the voters of Appleton that if elected Mayor I will devote all the time required to the office and whether elected Mayor or not will assist the new Assessor in every way possible and see that the work is carried on as it has been heretofore, but the man elected must be willing to work.

In the City Hall as Mayor I will have a lot more time to spend with the Assessor than I will if I am working for some other Corporation other than the City.

Hoping you will understand, and appreciate my position, I am

Yours sincerely,

ALBERT C. RIFE

APPLETON "Y" WILL ORGANIZE SERVICE CLUB

Members of Green Bay "Y"
Men's Club Explain Purpose of Organization

A new service club which is being sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and which will be known as the Y's Men's club, will be organized in Appleton it was decided at a meeting of 28 men interested in the project Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The Appleton men decided to organize a club after a delegation from the Green Bay Y's Men's group, who attended the gathering, had presented the subject and discussed the purposes and aims.

Frank Sager who presided at the meeting, was authorized to appoint a committee to prepare plans for organization and report at the earliest possible date.

It was pointed out that a Y's Men's club is not in competition with other service organizations, such as Rotary, Kiwanis or Lions clubs, but that it affords a place for men whose classifications are filled in other clubs. It was also shown that by meeting in the evening instead of at noon gives the opportunity of a service club to young men who are employed during the day in such occupations that noon meetings are impractical for them.

Five members of the Green Bay Y's Men's club, including Joseph C. Hanson, president of the organization, attended the meeting and told of the club in their association. The Green Bay club was organized only about a month ago. There are over 100 of these clubs in Y. M. C. A. associations throughout the country. The first Y's Men's organization was organized five years ago at Cleveland, Ohio.

Some of the aims of the club are to support by active service deserving philanthropic and social movements, to encourage efficiency and justice in civic affairs, abstaining always from politics and sectarianism, to develop substantial patriotism by sound character building and to serve by diligent active, personal and united effort in carrying forward very phase of the program of the Young Men's Christian association.

QUARTER EXAMINATIONS START NEXT SATURDAY

Lawrence students are again burning the midnight candles as they prepare for quarter examinations, which will begin Saturday. The schedule for the tests was announced early this week by Prof. O. P. Fairfield, secretary of the faculty.

Examinations were to begin Tuesday of next week, leaving a holiday between quarters of only four days. A student petition and vote accepted by the faculty changed the time to Saturday, and adds two days to the holiday period.

The last tests will come on Wednesday of next week, and registration for the spring term will be on Tuesday, March 30.

GOODLAND PRESIDES AT SCHOOL DEDICATION

Mayor John Goodland will preside at the dedication of McKinley Junior high school in the school auditorium on April 7, according to the completed plans for the program. The principal speaker of the evening will be Dr. S. H. Evans, president of Ripon college. Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools, will speak on Our Junior High Schools. The Appleton high school band will play several selections. Dr. Earl L. Ice Cream Cone Better Than Beer, Dairymen Say Outagamie-co. farmers generally agree with R. R. Runke, secretary of the Marathon County Guernsey Breeders association who recently stated that any return to the liquor traffic would greatly imperil interests of dairymen, according to a letter received from R. F. Winckler of the Winckler dairy farms at Medina. "Dairymen may be 'wet' or 'dry' in their personal habit of living in relation to liquor," said Mr. Runke, but when they see hundreds of millions of American dollars which are now being spent for butter, cream, milk, ice cream, cheese and other products of the dairy, in danger of being diverted from their industry to that of any other, their thought evolution will border on a thought revolution before our next congressional elections.

Mr. Runke further declared that the dairy farmer will show his fellow citizens that the ice cream cone, the glass of milk or the portion of butter is worth more to America than a frothy pot of beer.

To dairymen who have analyzed the question of the return of the liquor it means 'booze' or 'butter,' 'moon' or milk. Mr. Runke said.

Mr. Winckler states that he does not believe the recent action of the Outagamie County Board of Supervisors in recommending the return of light wines and beer, does not represent the sentiment of the thoughtful dairymen of the county, who he thinks agree heartily with Mr. Runke's position.

IRISH PROGRAMMusic, Dances and Addresses
Entertain at St. Patrick Day Entertainment

Kaukauna—Lorraine and Sherman Powers, aged 3 and 4 respectively, presented the feature number of the Irish entertainment at the auditorium Wednesday night. They defeated the audience with their "come hither" act. The children are taking dancing lessons from Mrs. J. D. Rannacher in Appleton. Another exceptional number was a song by John Gifford and Laverne Robideau. Colonel Frank M. Kuehl, secretary to Gov. J. J. Blaine, addressed the assemblage on "Ireland Through the Ages." He explained how the Irish were persecuted by England and how they tried to gain their freedom. Little by little they gained freedom but it was not until 1918 before they were granted the present liberty. Colonel Kuehl said he explained how the Irish came down through the ages and he told of the Irish in America, declaring they showed themselves to be true Americans.

Senator Cashman of Denmark spoke on "Ireland as an Educational Center During the Dark Ages." He pointed out that after the downfall of the Roman empire Ireland was the hub of the educational world. St. Patrick was one of the greatest educators that ever lived, according to the senator, and did a great deal to further education in northern Europe. He also told of illustrious Irish speakers in the house of parliament. The program opened with music by the orchestra, followed by a solo by J. H. Young who sang "Grogan from Tipperary." Mary and John McManis presented an Irish violin and piano duet and Melvin and Bruce Dahl sang and played several numbers. Miss Ella Hedlund sang a vocal solo and Harold Hedlund delighted the audience with a violin solo. Other numbers included a solo by Miss Olga Graf, Irish jig by Emmet Kavanagh, musical entertainment by John Gifford and Laverne Robideau, song by Emmet Roban, duet by Allen McCarthy and Les Hennes and a solo by John Stenger. Michael Miller played several selections on the accordion which were well received by the audience. The concluding numbers were a vocal duet by Ella Hedlund and John Stenger and a "line" dance act by Laura Zuk and Mrs. J. Praxell played all of the accompaniments.

STAGE AND SCREEN

LAUGHS AND THRILLS

GALORE IN "MIKE"
A great treat is in store for all those who go to the Elite theater for the next 2 days during which time "Mike" will be on view. It's one of the most merry, fast-moving, thrilling and entertaining films that has been shown here in some time. Moreover it has the inimitable Marshall Neilan touch applied in generous measures, having not only been directed by the gentleman but conceived by his own brain as well.

The story deals with the adventures of the daughter of a railroad section boss who is stationed near a small desert town. When not helping their sides from laughing, patrons of the Elite theater last night were puffed with excitement.

Metro Goldwyn Mayer has assembled a splendid cast to appear in "Mike." There is Sally O'Neill, a Marshall Neilan find who is a wonder, Charlie Murray, Ford Sterling, William Haines, Ned Sparks, Frankie Darro, Junior Coghlan, Muriel Frances Darro and Sam De Grasse.

VERA REYNOLDS HAS EXCELLENT ROLE IN BIG RACING PICTURE

Not since her appearance in "Feet of Clay" which brought her into prominence, has Vera Reynolds had such a wide variety of roles since she became a Cecil B. DeMille player.

In "Without Mercy" she was compelled to dive from a large ship and swim ashore at night. In "The Road to Yesterday" she encountered many new phases of motion picture activity which were new to her—and which she mastered.

Now comes the stellar role in "The Million Dollar Handicap" which will be presented at the Pishers Appleton theater next Sunday and wherein Miss Reynolds rides one of the most thrilling races ever shown on the screen.

For many days prior to her starting on the production, Miss Reynolds could be seen in her riding habit seated on a spirited horse dashing along the Beverly Hills middle path and other courses taken by film folks who are learning to ride as well as those who already have mastered the art. "The Million Dollar Handicap" Miss Reynolds finds herself in mighty fast company, so far as jockeys are concerned but due to her freshness and knowing her mounts managed to ride and win.

Edmund Burns, Ralph Lewis, Tom Wilson, Rosa Gore, Ward Crane and Clarence Burton appear in support of Miss Reynolds.

Also 4 acts of Vaudeville and Topics of the day and Aesop's Fables.

LOVE AND SPEED

IN RACING FILM
A racing picture as exciting as the old ones in which Wally Reid starred, comes to the New Bijou Theatre today and Saturday. It's going to be well-liked here. We speak of "The Checkered Flag" featuring charming Elaine Hammerstein and a stellar supporting cast headed by Wallace MacDonald.

This picture directed by John Adolf, tells a most exciting tale well illustrative of the adage "True love never runs smooth." The lovers have to struggle against adverse circumstances time and even themselves before their love reaches a happy fulfillment. The story adapted from Frederick and Fanny Hutton from her novel by John Mersecau is replete with startling situations and there are enough breath-taking thrills to keep one keyed up every moment. Humor and many little human touches add considerably to the entertainment value.

Elaine Hammerstein is splendid as the girl who risks her life in a break neck auto race to save the fortunes of her sweetheart and to prove to him the sincerity of her love. Wallace MacDonald is all that one looks for in a hero and Lee Shumway is good as the villain who causes all the mischief. Robert Ober and Peggy O'Neil in character roles are responsible for most of the laughs. Don't miss this one. It's a good story well played.

VALENTINO NOW IN

ROLE OF RUSSIAN
"The Eagle" in which Rudolph Valentino will be seen at the Elite theatre beginning Monday will present the star for the first time in the role of a Russian. In view of the popularity which he has given to romantic Latin types it will be interesting to see if he will raise the Slav to the same public esteem.

"The Eagle" is said to be a distinct departure for Valentino in other respects also. The story has more action and also more comedy than any other in which he has appeared. The star will be seen first as a handsome Cossack lieutenant then later as a swift, mysterious adventurous bandit whose exploits thrill all Russia. (It is from this that character derives the name of the Eagle.) For a while he masquerades as a French tutor in order to enter the home of his mortal enemy.

"The Eagle" is the first of the stories of Alexander Pushkin. Russian graphic author to reach the screen. The photograph was written by Hans Kravt who wrote "Pissone" "Deception" "Her Sister from Paris" and many other notable successes.

Vilma Banks, a striking blonde, who was recently brought to America by Samuel Goldwyn plays opposite the star. Louise Dresser stage star for many years has a featured role as the Czarina.

Clarence Brown whose rise has been meteor-like directed the picture and is said to have done an unusually good job. Brown directed "The Goose Woman" "The Acquittal" "Smouldering Fires" and other entertaining pictures.

APPLETON MAN MURDERED BY MEXICAN BANDITS

RELATIVES OF REX M'LOHNE TOLD OF DEATH

Engineer Slain by Murder Gang Far South of American Border

Rex McIlhorne, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McIlhorne, 1032 W. Elsie-st., and a native of this city was ambushed and killed by Mexican bandits Sunday while working on a construction project for the Utah Construction Co. in the town of Ixtlan, west of Mexico City, according to word received by his parents Thursday. A letter was received Wednesday from the American Steel Products Co. of Pittsburgh, which controls the Utah company, stating that McIlhorne had been mortally wounded and this was followed immediately by a telegram announcing his death. There are no details regarding the slaying. E. H. Tildenkamp, a companion of McIlhorne, also was attacked and was seriously wounded.

REPORT TO GOVERNMENT

The information regarding the attack and the slaying was received at the American embassy at Mexico City Wednesday from William P. Blocker, the American consul at Mazatlan, a city close to the scene of the tragedy. The embassy immediately sent a note to the Mexican foreign office requesting the government to take steps to arrest and punish the bandits. The consul requested that troops be sent in pursuit of the attacking party. Mr. McIlhorne had been in the employ of the American Bridge Co. of Pittsburgh for about 12 years. The Utah Construction Co. is a subsidiary of this concern. He was engaged in building a railroad in Mexico. The place where the slaying occurred is about 1,000 miles south of the United States boundary and west of Mexico City.

GONE 15 YEARS

McIlhorne who was 37 years old was born and raised in Appleton and was a graduate of Appleton high school. He left this city 15 years ago but has visited here frequently since then. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McIlhorne, one sister, Mrs. Richard Dunger, one brother Bernard McIlhorne, all of Appleton. It is understood here that the body has been interred in Mexico but McIlhorne's relatives are trying to ascertain if the body can be brought to Appleton for burial.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Snow or rain tonight; Saturday partly cloudy; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The low pressure area which was over the Rocky mountain slope yesterday morning has moved to the central valleys and is showing several slight centers of activity and some cloudiness. Light precipitation has already fallen over the extreme north and scattered showers or snow flurries will probably occur over much of the central portion of the country again tonight. The pressure is still low in the far northwest, but is rising over the intermediate region, and this rise should spread and cause generally fair weather in this section on Saturday. Temperatures are moderate in all sections.

INACTIVITY OF DRYS IS BLAMED FOR WET GAINS

Ingler Tells W. C. T. U. to Help "Clean Up" Conditions Here

Prof. F. M. Ingler of Lawrence college outlined the present situation of the country in regard to prohibition at the parlor meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance union Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. B. Keyes, 412 N. Durkee-st. A short business meeting preceded the program. Prof. Ingler said officials are inactive in enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and that inactivity and self satisfaction on the part of the dry were reasons for the present situation. He suggested that all anti-saloon organizations which existed before the war become active again as a possible remedy for the present predicament.

"Good citizens will not depend on the federal government to clean up Appleton but will take it in hand themselves and it will be better done," Prof. Ingler said. Home training of a child in the home is an effective way of remedying the condition. Parents should set forth in their teaching the dangerous effect of alcoholic drinks, he said.

A musical program was presented and included two violin numbers by Miss Jeanette Carncross, three vocal numbers by Mrs. P. E. Clayton, "Annie Laurie," "Way Down South" and "If You'll be 'Mine, Mine," and two violin numbers by Miss Harriet Melhinch, J. E. Bond told of his personal observations of the prohibition law. Thirty persons were present at the program. A social and refreshments followed with Mrs. C. J. Glaser in charge.

YOUTH ADMITS FORGERY; PAROLED TO SHERIFF

George Roseneau, 20, said to live near Chilton, was paroled to Sheriff P. G. Schwartz for a year when he pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery Wednesday afternoon in municipal court. Roseneau's trial had been set for Tuesday morning, March 23, but he decided to plead guilty immediately.

The youth had been employed on the George Plaman farm near Greenville, for four days, when he ran away with his employer's cream check. He attempted to cash the check at Appleton State Bank, but was arrested by local police.

Mrs. E. J. Brill left Saturday morning for Milwaukee where she will remain for about two weeks because of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. E. C. Potter.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Mursell of St. Alban, England, are visiting their son, Prof. James L. Mursell of Lawrence college. Mr. and Mrs. Mursell who are on their way to Australia, will visit for two weeks with their son.

Henry J. Lenz Post Adopts Resolution to This Effect
at Meeting

Menasha—J. R. Batchelor of the National Playground and Recreation Association of America, gave a talk Thursday night at the mid-monthly meeting of Henry J. W. C. Friedland then told how the Legion was an aid in the original inauguration of recreation for the city and said credit is due the legion for the work that was carried out during the year. He felt that after such a successful program sponsored by the legion that the work should not be permitted to stop.

A resolution was adopted unanimously to the effect that the Henry J. Lenz post favors continuation of the recreation program as carried out last year.

Further business of the evening was given over to the development of an athletic program to include the immediate organization of a playground ball team that will be entered in the senior playground ball league, with Carl Heckbrodt as manager. Plans were made for the entry of a team in the legion turn-of-war contest to be staged at the armory next month.

SCHOOL BOND AND BAND HELP GO ON APRIL BALLOTS

Council Adopts Resolution to Provide Money for Education and Music

Neenah—A resolution to bond the city for $350,000 for a new high school and a resolution to spend not to exceed $4,000 for band concerts during the year providing they are approved by the voters in the April election were adopted Thursday evening at a meeting of the city council.

The resolution to bond the city for school purposes provided for 250 bonds of $1,000 each, dated July 1, 1926, and maturing in 20 years. This resolution was passed by the council without dissent. Argument on the band resolution resulted when Ald. Laursen of the Fourth ward objected to calling the organization a "Municipal" band, saying that over half of the players are from Appleton. It was explained to the alderman from the Fourth ward that it was necessary to secure outside help until a sufficient number of Neenah could be trained. The resolutions was adopted.

An argument ensued when Ald. Herzig of the Third ward moved that the mayor and president of the council survey the distance from Biglows addition in the First ward, on which the new school is to be erected, to the ward limits and to publish their findings with a city map in order that people will be acquainted with the new school location.

"I think it is the duty of the council to explain everything in its power in connection with the school program," Ald. Schmidt of the Fifth ward said. "There is no harm in publishing any and all information."

There is hardly a person who does not know where certain streets are in this little city," claimed Ald. Laursen, "especially after this council has talked Biglows' addition and the new school site for the last two years."

"It will pay the cost of publishing this information and will also pay for the text," Ald. Herzig said. "I insist that this matter be put before the people who have a right to know and I will not be ruled out of order or off the floor until I have won my point."

"The motion is out of order," George Kelly, city attorney, ruled. "There is nothing before the council that this motion would be based on. It is strictly a school board matter."

The mayor accepted the attorney's ruling and did not put the motion. Schmidt asked that the manner of bonding the city for $350,000, for school purposes and raising the remainder by a direct tax during the next two or three years be explained to the citizens. The finance committee was inspected to provide for publicity for the issue before voters go to the polls.

The bid of E. A. Yahr of $17,156.64 for building sewers this season, was accepted by the council.

The Third-ave and S. Commercial-st crossing at the Chicago Northwest-ern tracks was declared to be in bad shape and a nuisance. The board of public works will view the premises and make recommendations for remedying it.

A report of the finance committee showed that a total of $2,517.17 had been spent by the city since the last council meeting.

INCOME TAX WIPES OUT STAGE SUCCESS OF GIRL

London—(AP)—Eighteen-year-old Marian Wilson made $85,000 on her production of "The Beggar's Opera" and lost it all, and more too, on "The British Ballet."

"The income tax got the girl producer. While money was rolling in from "The Beggar's Opera," she forgot all about the income tax and did not lay any of her money aside. Instead she put it into a new production which was not a success and when the tax collector came around she faced disaster.

So the ambitious producer went back to work as an actress. She danced for a time in a cabaret at Nice, then joined up with Ben Greet's Shakespearean players and has been playing all over provincial England.

It is her ambition to become a comedienne. She never wanted to be a producer, but her father objected to her acting and gave her $5,000 to use in producing.

LAST GATHERING OF THE COOLIDGES

A picture of the last gathering of Col. John Coolidge and the members of his son's family, this. It shows the president, Mrs. Coolidge, their son John, and the president's father (right) on the lawn of the White House.

The Rev. John White, (above) Col. Coolidge's pastor, will conduct the funeral services for the president's father in the snowbound Union Church and meeting house at Plymouth, Vt., shown at the right.

Col. Coolidge Sprung From Obscurity
He Inaugurated Son As President

When Calvin Coolidge succeeded to the presidency upon the death of President Harding in August, 1923, his father John C. Coolidge, suddenly sprang from the obscurity of a quiet, little Vermont town to national prominence. Up to that time the father of the new president, although he had been actively interested in public affairs for many years, scarcely was known or heard of outside his native state.

Not many of the 29 men who were fathers of presidents lived to see their sons inducted into the highest public office, and among those who did Col. Coolidge had the distinction of being the only one to administer the oath of the presidential office to his son. It was this more than the mere fact that he had become father of the president that caused the attention of the nation to be directed to him.

HOME ON VACATION

It was only a few weeks before that the son, then vice president, with his family had returned to the paternal homestead for a vacation. In the midst of this family reunion and holiday came the death of President Harding. It was near midnight when the news reached the Coolidge home in the little mountain village of Plymouth remote from the railroad, and immediately plans were made for sequestering in the new president.

The ceremony was delayed only long enough to receive from Washington the official form of the president's oath and when it arrived in the early morning hours the stage was all set for one of the most solemn and dramatic inductions of a president in the history of the country.

FATHER GIVES OATH

Colonel Coolidge was thrust into the picture much in the manner of an understudy suddenly called upon to play the leading role in a drama. The vice president had decided that his father, by virtue of his office of notary public of Plymouth, was qualified to administer the oath, which was done in the living room of the Coolidge home by the light of a small kerosene lamp of the type commonly used in farmhouse kitchens.

The ceremony, thus performed amid surroundings that were more like the early years of the country rather than of the twentieth century, was in conformity to the simple traditions that have marked the lives of the Coolidges of Vermont for many years.

MECCA OF TOURISTS

Colonel Coolidge—he obtained his rank from service on the staff of Governor Stickney of Vermont—always lived in Plymouth, where he was born March 31, 1845. The fact that his son became president did not change his mode of living with the exception that he was obliged to spend considerable time greeting tourists who came to get a glimpse of the place where Calvin Coolidge was born and spent his boyhood. These tourists came by thousands during the months when snow did not hinder motor traffic to the village. The colonel took great pride in showing them the table where the president signed the oath of office, the pen, the kitchen lamp and the Bible used in the administration of the oath. He also prized highly his visitor's register, a series of notebooks containing the signatures of thousands of persons from all parts of the country.

After his son became the occupant of the White House Colonel Coolidge made occasional trips to Washington, but always appeared glad to get back to his farm and the life to which he had so long been accustomed.

DID WORK WELL

Although naturally proud of the success of his son's career, the father never was heard to take any credit for it. "When Cal was in school," he once remarked, "I thought he would make a good doctor, but his main thought as a youth was to get a good education and I did all in my power to help him. As a boy he always went with me to the town meeting, town caucus and such things and always when we had a public examination for school teachers. He was always interested in such things. The point is, whatever he had to do he attended to it and did it the best he knew how, whether he liked it or not, and I think that's what he has always done."

Colonel Coolidge, although primarily a merchant during most of the years of his active life, was a man of many interests. After his schooling at Black River Academy at Ludlow, which his son later attended, he worked for the village wheelwright cutting timber until he was 22 years of age. Then he rented the general store at Plymouth and conducted it until 1918, when he sold the business to devote his time to insurance interests and his duties as an officer of the Ludlow Savings Bank and Trust Company. He was one of the organizers of the latter and a charter member of the board of directors.

WAS IN LEGISLATURE

At the age of 27 Colonel Coolidge was elected to the Vermont legislature and was the youngest representative in the session. He served six terms as representative and one as state senator. In his home town he was tax collector for 33 years, a deputy sheriff for more than 40 years and school director for a long period. He also served as moderator for the town meeting and was assistant postmaster for 49 years. In the last named position it was said in the village that he was the only person there who was sufficiently familiar with the forms of the postoffice department to make out correctly the detailed reports required. His services also were in demand in the settlement of estates.

A visitor to Plymouth once remarked that the colonel appeared "to have been everything in this town except the undertaker." To this he replied that as a youth working in the wheelwright's shop he assisted in making coffins. "And we thought," he added, "that it was a cheat to use anything but hardwood for coffins in those days."

MARRIED TWICE

Colonel Coolidge in 1868 married Victoria Josephine Moore. They lived in a tenement in the rear of the store, where President Coolidge was born, until 1878, when upon the death of his father the colonel moved into the latter's home, the present Coolidge homestead. Mrs. Coolidge died when Calvin was 12 years old. The colonel's second wife was Carrie A. Brown, who died in 1920.

Speaking of the affection between his second wife and his son, Colonel Coolidge once said:

"Calvin was never so busy but that he wrote to his stepmother every week and sometimes oftener. And she could see more in him than I could. She took more stock in his some day becoming president than I did."

Although thousands of automobiles visited his home after his son became president, Colonel Coolidge never had a desire for this modern means of conveyance. Making the trips which his varied business interests demanded he stuck to his buggy and old horse, which he remarked in 1924 was "about played out." He took kindly, however, to the radio and in his later years abandoned his lifetime practice of retiring early in order to listen in, especially when an address by his son was being broadcast. He was greatly touched when President Coolidge at the close of an address near the end of the 1924 campaign said a public good night to his father.

The death of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., son of the president, greatly affected the colonel and his friends said that he never fully recovered from the shock.

How can the price be so low?

WHY does the Exide Battery cost no more than ordinary batteries? Here is the answer: Exide was the pioneer automobile battery. High quality brought demand, and that meant big production and the economies of manufacture that go with it. Exide is the economical battery for you to buy, because the price is low and the length of service exceptionally long.

The price displayed above is for a 13-plate Exide. There are Exide Batteries for every car, some costing more than $16.50 and some costing even less. At Exide dealers everywhere.

Half Century Instrument Has 27,000,000 Descendants

Boston (AP)—Watson come here! I want you."

It was not Sherlock Holmes speaking, but Alexander Graham Bell delivering the first telephone message ever heard. And he got the right number, partly because there were no others to be had.

It was 50 years ago March 7 that a patent was granted for the instrument which was looked upon as amusing and interesting, but a "worthless" toy. That original instrument, made in Boston in a dingy electrical shop, now has some 27,000,000 descendants in the world, 17,000,000 of which are connected with virtually every village and hamlet in the United States.

Bell's first message was delivered to Thomas A. Watson, still living in Boston, who at the time was an electrician's apprentice. Watson helped the inventor, who then was a professor at Boston University, build his first telephone. Bell had gone to Canada from Scotland, his native birthplace, as an authority on phonetics. He was invited to Boston to introduce a system of visible speech into the schools for the deaf. A year later he was made professor of education at Boston University.

Electricians of the time were trying to develop the telegraph and Bell, who was interested, passed many hours in the dingy little electrical shop on Court street where Watson worked. The two became close friends and Watson was taken into the inventor's confidence.

The following months of toil there was hope, increasing hope, then failure. Ultimately there was a partial success. It was on June 2, 1875, that Bell made his first fundamental discovery, quite by accident. Watson led a spring ship while the two were adjusting instruments at each end of a copper wire strung between two rooms in the shop. The spring touched the sensitive wire. Bell heard a humming sound, perhaps not unlike those sometimes heard on a stormy night, and he knew success was near.

A few weeks later Bell and Watson moved their apparatus to two rooms on the top floor of an inexpensive boarding house. On March 10, 1876, three days after they had been granted their patent for an "improved telegraph," Watson heard the faint and scarcely audible voice of Professor Bell calling him over the wire.

But the telephone was far from a success at first. Its usefulness was questioned. When exhibited at the Philadelphia centennial exposition it generally was considered a failure. But the astonishment of the emperor of Brazil encouraged Bell to go on. He had a visitor at the exposition, played the recorder to his ear and explained in astonishment, "It speaks!" By fall of that year a line was successfully operated between Boston and Cambridge, a distance of two miles.

Local scientists then became interested and Bell was invited to demonstrate his instrument at Essex Institute of Salem. It was at this demonstration that Henry M. Batchelder, still a resident of Salem, as a newspaper reporter, telephoned the first news ever sent over the telephone to the Boston Globe. Mr. Batchelder now is a bank president in Salem.

Bell and Watson then continued to raise money for further experiments by charging thirty-five and fifty cents for admission to similar demonstrations. A month after the Salem call Bell talked to New York from Boston over telegraph wire lent to him for the occasion.

Finally, three banking houses agreed to give the instruments a trial and after a few weeks found them a success. An advertising circular was issued calling attention to the fact that anyone could use the instrument, and that, though the sound is audible and the articulation seems to be in distinct, after a few minutes the ear becomes accustomed to the peculiar sound and finds little difficulty in understanding the words.

INDIAN WOMAN LIVED HER LAND

Chukla Personifying Bret Harte Country Was an Interesting Study

From The Bret Harte Country. By David Jones, in The American Magazine.

It was a woman over to Potlatch," he remarked pensively, "is dead." This was a curious thing. With out seeing Chukla my wish would be complete. Our friendship had begun 15 years before. I still feel a regret that our first meeting was such a disappointment for the lady. I had tramped down from the south fork of the Stanislaus, and by nightfall started to climb the debris of Table mountain. It was inky dark when I crossed the tufa-strawed lava hollows sounding drum-like underfoot.

Eventually I struggled into Potlatch, and five down in the manner of a prospector, fell asleep in a camp of sugar pines. And here, after dawn, Chukla watched me, for at least two hours, with her eyes fixed on a cheap silver ring on my finger. My awakening shattered her hopes of acquiring a memento mori.

For me, thenceforth, Chukla personified Potlatch. She was as authentic as the scrub oaks or the honey bears. She was its sole aborigine, its nurse, soothsayer and midwife. She was gnarled and stocky, with a jet mane and flat Kal-muck features, very like a mahogany carving that has been smoked in a chimney for a hundred years.

Every morning, with a papoose upon her back—one of the intermittent great-grandchildren saddled up on her after weaning—she trudged barefoot through the camp for the wet diggings in the canyon. Her pan and shovel and rations she carried slung in a cheap wicker suitcase. She had a love, tantamount to a passion, for animals, and was always followed by two or three dogs and a turkey, a reluctant turkey, dragged along by a cord tied to its shank. She could pass a whole afternoon in contemplation of a cow. "Chukla gittin' deaf," she would complain, as she passed my cabin, "gittin' deaf, and no can hear the quail."

At 80 this was her one grief. By the voices of these birds she divined changes in the weather, and made a nice little income thereby. But even though our minds re-

SAYS DEATH IS NOT FRIGHTFUL

Veteran Country Doctor Declares He Has Seen but One Person Who Feared to Die

Dr. Thomas Wilson, a Country Physician for More Than 50 Years, in The American Magazine.

In all my experience I have seen but one human being who, when death actually came, was rebellious and afraid. I have, it is true, seen men die in delirium tremens. But their terrors had nothing to do with death. They were simply a part of the delirium, the phantasies of a disordered mind. I have seen only one cause of a human soul which, to the very last, was bitter and afraid.

No, we need not fear the moment of death, for Nature is never more kind to us than then. Very, very often she sees to it that we do not even know. Our minds drop asleep, as it were, and death is then only a physical change.

But even though our minds re-

Burt's Candy Shop Closes Its Doors

Not for good, but on last Saturday Evening the crowd in this popular Candy Shop and Tea Room, and the crowd seeking admission was so large that the doors had to be closed for twenty minutes. At the end of the time the attendants were able to get caught up on dishes, etc., and people were admitted as the patrons left.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN
TO SYDNEY CARLTON—(CONTINUED)

PADDYFOOT, THE MOUSE, TELLS A STORY

Nancy and Nick and June and Hickydoo stepped into the elevator again, and there, just as the Chinese man had said, were three large baskets.

"One basket said, 'Chinese dragon, this young and tender!'"

"Another basket said, 'Morsey nose, this fat and plump!'"

"A third basket said, 'Fuzzy cat, this fresh from the barbers!'"

"Well the cross old hat should be snatched first," said Paddyfoot, the mouse, sticking his head out of a basket. "He can't hold up any longer, and you should be at the gate in about five minutes."

"Oh, Paddyfoot," said Nancy. "I'm so sorry about you! Wouldn't you like to be a nice big bear again like you used to be?"

"Start off," said Paddyfoot sadly. "Only I got sick and tired of Old Blue Whiskers. If I am over a bear again I'm not going to be anybody's prize minister. But I'll tell you a secret I never, never, never told anyone before."

"What?" cried Nancy and Nick and June together. And Hickydoo echoed hollowly, "What?"

"I'm not a bear any more than I am a mouse," said Paddyfoot. "I'm a king! I'm the real king of the land of the Blue Cherry and Old Blue Whiskers stole my kingdom and turned me into a bear and compelled me to be a prime minister and chief cook and bottle washer. I've been that for over a hundred years. It was just because he was afraid of me that he turned me into a mouse."

"But how can you ever get turned back again into a king?" asked Nancy breathlessly.

"The Blue Cherry has a magic of it," said Paddyfoot. "When you remember when I found the tree on Cherry Round Hill, I tried to get to the Blue Cherry and take a bite of it first. But Blue Whiskers turned himself into a bluejay and ran off with it before I could touch it. It is so hard because the rarely comes down to the plant."

"I didn't know that! But that I could do some good, Jack," she said, "and besides, I want you and Sally to go with me to lunch!"

"I did not know until afterward that Sally Atterton had sent for my wife," he knew I would be overcome with gratitude and as usual had hit upon the right way to put things on the former basis.

"I'll be glad to go," said Mrs. Atterton, "but we must wait until Margaret Simpson comes back and the four of us will go together. You may be bored to death, Leslie, but I'm awfully interested in that little Simpson girl and am going to see if I can't make something out of her."

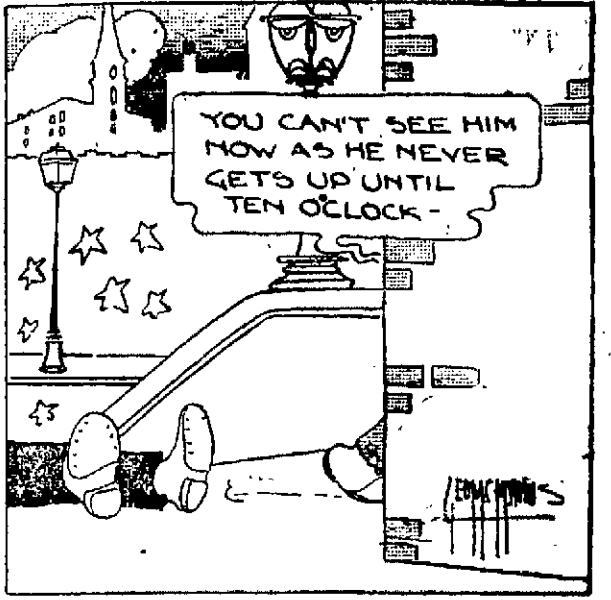

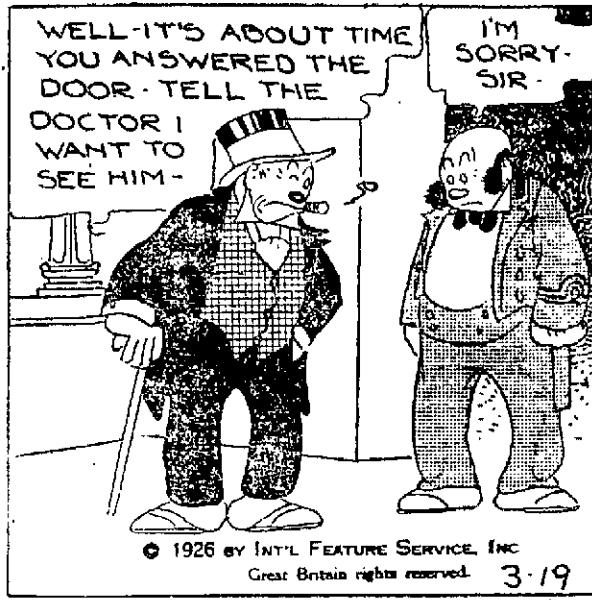

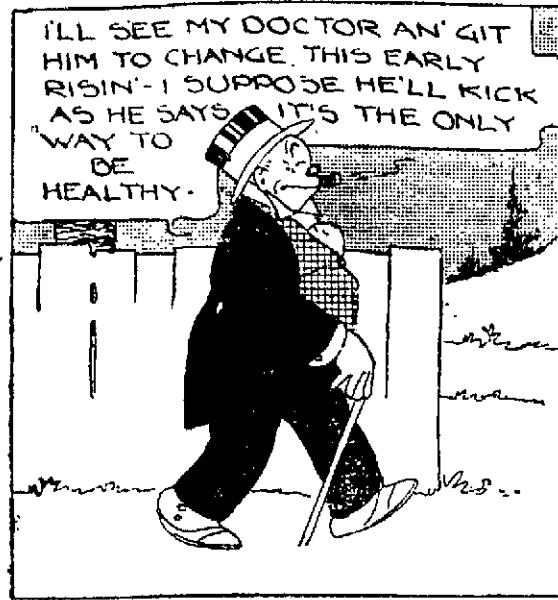

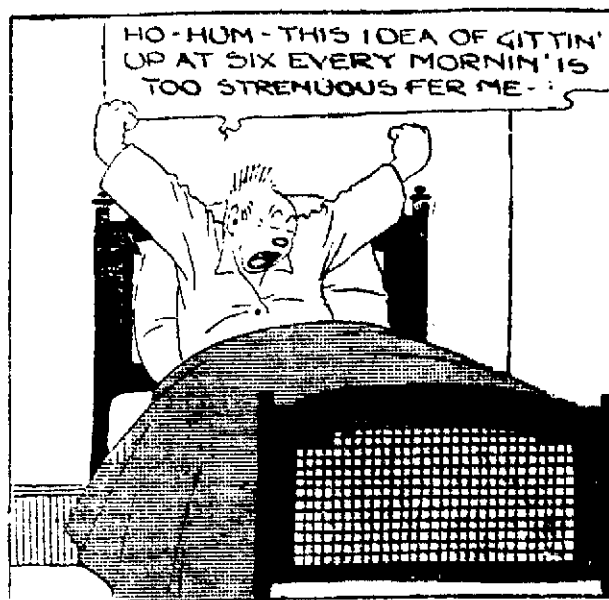

Atterton, 1926, NEA Service, Inc. SYDNEY CARLTON—Letter from John Alden Present to Sydney Carlton.

Proclamations

When the President of the United States or the governor of any state issues a proclamation, it carries weight and receives almost universal attention.

But there are other proclamations which have a vital bearing upon your everyday well-being and happiness—hundreds of these proclamations coming out daily in the Post-Crescent's A-B-C Classified Section—all classified and indexed to facilitate giving them the attention they deserve.

Stores are proclaiming opportunities to secure various merchandise at economical prices; landlords are proclaiming renting opportunities; individuals and corporations are broadcasting proclamations of profitable employment; and so on, embracing all ordinary interests.

Know all men by the above presents that classified proclamations are forerunners of opportunity.

Coolidge Loses Race With Death

Sheriff Angus Macaulay, who acted as bodyguard for Coolidge since his death, failed finally last June to remain at his post. A few of the neighbors came to pay their last respects, but while others came and went, Macaulay kept vigil all night.

The large parlor of the farm house where the casket was placed held many associations. Folding doors had been thrown open to include in one room the parlor and the little sitting room in which the colonel in August, 1923, administered the oath to his son as president. In this same room six years ago the body of the colonel lay in state, while neighbors passed in silent final tribute.

This is the fifth time since he became chief executive that President Coolidge visited Plymouth and of the visits three have been made in circumstances of sorrow.

SON BURIED THERE
In the summer of 1924 the President and Mrs. Coolidge came here in order that their son, Calvin, might rest with his ancestors in the hillside cemetery. Last June the president was summoned hastily from his summer home at Swampscott, Mass., when his father was in his final moments.

Now the last of the firm link that bound him to the Vermont hamlet is broken. The neighbors recall that the President sought to have his father go to Washington last fall and that Col. Coolidge refused to spend the winter away from familiar faces and scenes.

On one of his visits to Washington he said he had a nice time "but home's a pretty good place after all." Months ago the Colonel instructed Selectman Axel Johnson to prepare his grave in the cemetery on the hillside.

The final phase of his illness dated from last Thursday since he contracted a cold a year ago. Then specialists in Boston found him suffering from a malady, diagnosed as "heart block."

An operation was performed in June and in December the colonel lost the use of his legs. He had been bed-ridden since.

Only an indomitable will kept alive the spark of life, those near to Colonel Coolidge said.

CANCER CAUSED DEATH
Carcinoma, a form of cancer, was given Friday as the cause of Col. Coolidge's death. It affected the region of the bladder, his physician said, with myocarditis, an inflammation of the heart muscles, a contributing factor.

Dr. Crum, who attended the president's father throughout his fatal illness, announced his diagnosis after he consulted Major James P. Coupal, White House physician, who accompanied the presidential party here by train, and the carcinoma was the primary cause of death.

It was indicated that the physicians and surgeons who attended Col. Coolidge last summer when an operation on the bladder was resorted to during a critical illness, discovered a cancerous growth but this was guarded from the public.

Every car which has been stolen in Appleton this year, has been found within 24 hours, abandoned in some part of the city, police records show. The Hudson coach owned by the J. T. McCann Co., which was stolen from the alley at the rear of the McCann garage at 208-10 W. College-ave early Wednesday evening, was recovered near the south end of N. Clark-st. about 12 o'clock Thursday noon by John Kohnsen, driver for the police department. DUNCE OF TODAY MAY BE GENIUS TOMORROW

London—(AP)—Charles Darwin and Sir Isaac Newton were backward children. It is pointed out by Dr. A. F. Tredgold, a specialist, who contends that many school dunces of today will become great men.

"The dull boy who is made to wear the fool's cap in classes in the future will be able to beguile the tedium of his penance by reflecting that his stupidity may some day make him famous," declared the physician, addressing the Women's Sanitary Inspectors at Bedford College.

The backwardness of Newton and Darwin, he said, was due to late development of their mental powers. His studies have convinced him that the boy who is a dunce, and who has not much intellect or capacity for learning, often has a large amount of common sense and intelligence tucked away under his scalp, and gets on in life better than the scholarship boy.

LONDON COURT BOOKS AUCTIONED IN MARCH

Among the books to be offered during three days beginning March 15, are said to be volumes not to be found in any other private collection in the world.

Franklin was a junior in the high school. He was a good student and always took an active part in school activities.

FRIDAY

Fruitfulness and Joy

Read In 15711 Text 35c
Herein is my Father glorified, that we bear much fruit.

Meditation—Again we face an essential test of discipleship. Only as we bear fruit are we genuinely his disciples. When other lives are enriched by ours when they are led toward Christ and not away from him we know we are his. When we so live and speak that we show forth our best those about us are made strong to do their best. He calls us to bear much fruit that his joy may be in us and that our joy may be full.

Help me the slow of heart to move by some clear, winning word of love Teach me the wayward foot to stay And guide them in the homeward way.

Prayer—O Master of the way of life, Free us from the passion for pleasure as the way to joy. Help us to seek out and serve others who lack the abundant life which Thou dost give. Give us this day a deeper experience of Thy deliverance love that we may bear it to some other seeking and impoverished soul. Amen.
